From a longtime NBA and MLB professional sports event director—the ultimate insider guide to creating an event presentation that delivers excitement, engagement, and memorable moments for fans, sponsors, and participants.

In today’s entertainment-driven world, fans, sponsors, and participants expect more than just a game—they want an immersive experience that begins the moment they arrive at the venue and lingers long after the final buzzer.

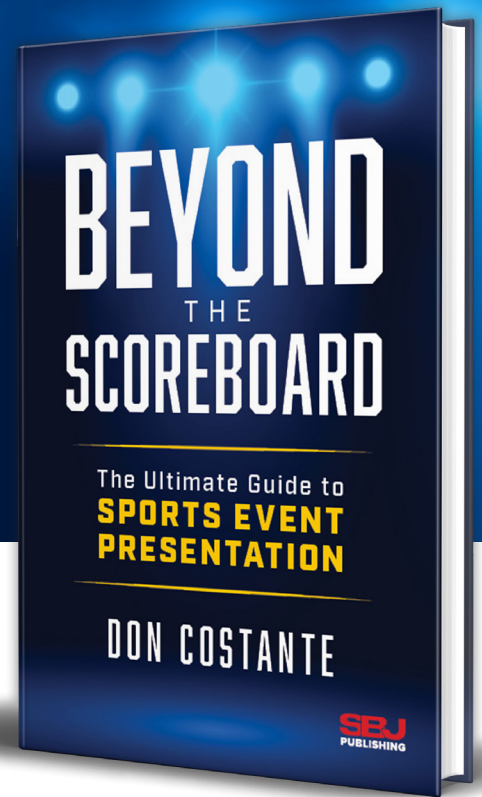

While enhancements like cutting-edge graphics and other digital assets, control room equipment, or facility upgrades like Wi-Fi, expanded concourses, or new food and beverage options can undoubtedly improve the fan experience, it’s the strategic execution and seamless integration of all elements that truly elevate an event.

Drawing on more than thirty years of experience directing iconic events from the NBA Finals to the World Series and global sports brands, event presentation expert Don Costante takes readers beyond the scoreboard to provide an in-depth look at each key element of gameday operations—including proper communication, entertainment resources, music, digital production, promotions, and staffing.
